—Ex-Governor Sprague, of Rhode Island, is working hard in his Providence mills to redeem his fortunes and pay the firm's debts, due next February.

—Ladies now hang their fans by a two inch wide cardinal ribbon, caught at the waist on the left side. The bright color forms a pretty contrast both with light and dark dresses.

—A part of the keel of the British frigate Hussar, sunk at Hell Gate during the Revolutionary war, has been raised; but little of her iron is to be found, and, as yet, none of the gold which the divers are in quest of.

—According to the recent German census it is shown that the population of the empire has increased more than a million and a half during the last four years, notwithstanding the large emigration to America and the loss of life by the Franco-German war.

—Mrs. Astor, when she wants to feel dressed, wears a million dollars' worth of diamonds at a time, and when a hotel clerk or a minstrel end man passes near her, his usually magnificent cluster just shrinks and folds itself up until it looks as if he had only spilled a drop of molasses on his shirt front.

—There is no expectation at Washington or elsewhere that the electoral vote of a single Southern State, South Carolina and Louisiana excepted, will be thrown for Hayes and Wheeler. But it is proposed that whoever wants to vote for them shall have a chance to do so, and the order of the Secretary of War means that and nothing more.

—The shipment of twelve common-gauge and two narrow-gauge locomotives from this country to Brazil shows that, after a fair trial of European engines, ours have proved more satisfactory to the Brazilians, and they are determined to adopt them. It is a grand triumph for our engine builders, and a fine opening for a new branch of export trade.

—Writing of a foolish little countess and other women, a Paris correspondent says: "Here was the petite brunette dressed plainly, yet as she stood she was worth in dry goods and jewels (omitting her bracelets) over $2,000 in her promenade costume, not to mention her other toilets. Worth has some lady clients who spend $12,000 a year for dress alone."

—There is some excitement in the rural districts over the fact of the approach of the time for "husking bees." The "husking bee" is a delightful entertainment given by the farmers, and is generally attended by eighteen young men, who kiss each of the girls in the house seven times, husk four ears of corn, and go home as soon as they have disposed of what cider they can find.

—Wagner deserves much for his pluck and endurance in his long fight, but it is probable that but for the princely aid of the King of Bavaria and the knightly help of Liszt and Von Bulow, he might have carried on the fight hopelessly, and died like Bach, great but obscure, leaving to the future his immortal works. Few men have ever tasted more fully the cup of fame. He has drunk the sweet draught that so often is spilled upon the tomb.

—Maggie Mitchell owns a number of cottages at Long Branch. The one in which she dwells was built by Edwin Booth, and in its large parlors he was married. It is profusely ornamented within with paintings, statuary, rare and costly volumes, and especially with quaint and beautiful articles of Japanese manufacture. Among her books is one of the three copies of Boddell's 1793 edition of Shakspeare—a huge volume, containing one hundred steel plates, and valued at several hundred dollars.

—Mr. Proctor Knott's friends spend hours every day at the gentleman's beside, trying to coax him to put his head out from under the quilt. "You'll smother," they say, "and besides, what if he is getting well enough to go around making speeches? He's away up in Maine, and won't be back here for a month." But the only response is a quivering, tremulous motion of the bed clothes and a nervous tucking of the quilts more closely around the imprisoned head, as though unseen fingers were gathering in a fresh grip on them.

—Cardinal Antonelli has for some time suffered from gout, supervening on Bright's disease of long standing. Though a confirmed invalid he is still equal to the onerous duties of his post, and is generally able to visit the Holy Father personally and to confer with him on matters of State every day. On one of these occasions recently he was seized with a fainting fit and had to be carried from the Pope's presence to his sleeping apartment, where he kept his bed for forty-eight hours. He is now able to resume his wonted avocations.

—A London correspondent of the Madrid Epoca, in a letter about society in the British Capital, says that the honor of dancing with the Prince of Wales at the Marlborough House balls is greatly coveted by the ladies of the fashionable world, and that while several dames of high degree, including one Spanish lady of rank, have been sadly mortified by failing to secure this distinction during the season now closed, Patti, Nilsson-Rouzad and the Spanish Countess of Galve are regarded with much envy and malice because it was conferred upon them by His Royal Highness.

—Some observing newspaper correspondent is responsible for the following: "One of the remarkable looking specimens who roam the Saratoga piazzas is daily adorned in four separate suits. He makes his debut in the morning in a brown and gray plaid, with scarlet stripes running through it. A few hours later the toilet is varied by a black velvet jacket over the gorgeous plaid pantaloons. At dinner he appears in a lighter plaid suit of about an inch square, and in the evening he is generally done up in full evening toilet. His air of perfect self-satisfaction increases with each suit that he dons. He wears a broad smile with the plaid and a smirk with the swallow tail."

DAYTON, O., August 21.—The directors of the C. H. & D., and the Dayton Short Line Railroad, held a meeting here to-day, having in view the purpose of uniting the two roads. It is not known that a definite settlement has yet been made, but it is expected such an arrangement will soon be completed.

No Respite for a Murderer.

DAYTON, Ohio, August 21.—Governor Hayes, in a dispatch to the Sheriff, received to-day, declines to interfere in the case of Murphy, sentenced to be hanged on Friday for the murder of Col. Dawson, last September. Murphy will be hung on the 25th instant.

THE LAST SAD SCENES.

Speaker Kerr's Exchange of Worlds.

In the Dark Valley—The Shades of Death Gathering Around Him—How He Met Death—His Spiritual Condition—The Closing Moments of an Eventful Life—Interesting Personal Reminiscences of the Deceased.

WASHINGTON, August 21.—The account of the last hours of Speaker Kerr are graphically described by his clerk, who had known him intimately at his home in New Albany, and who was with him every hour while he performed the duties of Speaker. Writing from Rockbridge Alum Springs, he says:

The Speaker died at 7:20 P. M. Saturday, peacefully and quietly. All day he had suffered intensely from pains in the bladder and urethra, and at times complained of suffocation. The difficulty in breathing lasted nearly up to the hour of his death. About a quarter past 7 he seemed to become easier, and his breathing grew soft and natural, and the respirations were of the ordinary length. Dr. Pope was at the time conversing with Mrs. Kerr, no other persons being in the room except Andy, a colored servant of Mr. Kerr's who had been at his side night and day since his arrival here. The physician noticing the change in Mr. Kerr's breathing, asked him whether he felt easier, to which Mr. Kerr responded by a nod, at the same time fixing his bright eyes on the questioner. In another moment the intelligent glance changed to a dull, cold stare, the breathing stopped, and Michael C. Kerr was dead.

His Intense Sufferings.

For thirty-six hours this event had been momentarily expected. For that length of time he had frequently recurring paroxysms of pain of the most excruciating kind. Latterly this pain became so great that moans could be heard in the adjoining rooms. This difficulty Dr. Pope explains by saying that the intestines have been almost entirely wasted away. Indeed, the abdomen rests flat on the backbone, the entire thickness through that part of the body not being more than two inches. The anodynes prescribed by Dr. Pope had scarcely the effect to materially mitigate the sufferings of Mr. Kerr, who often begged that some opiate might be given him by which he might be enabled to die in peace. On Wednesday night he rested well, or at least suffered little pain, but last night he scarcely closed his eyes. Shortly after midnight, however, he dropped into a quiet sleep. About two o'clock he awakened in a great fright, and staring wildly at his attendant, whispered huskily, "What is the matter with me? Oh, God! I am suffocating." The physician and family were at once summoned, and everything medical skill and the sympathy of his loving and devoted friends could suggest was done. From that time he seemed to be marked by the hand of death. His shortness of breath continued without intermission, alternating with frequent paroxysms of suffocation. Several of these during the afternoon were expected to be final, and his friends were constantly by his bedside. Among these were the Hon. S. S. Cox, of New York, the Hon. Mr. Blair, the Rev. Mr. Harris, President of the Female Seminary at Staunton, this State, Mrs Kerr and her son, and Mr. Kerr's two secretaries. When the summons came they were out of the room.

The tenacity with which Mr. Kerr held on to life continues to be a surprise to every one here. For more than an hour before his death, his extremities were as cold as marble. His pulse in wrist and arm had entirely ceased to beat, and it was difficult to detect at that time the faintest flutter of the heart. Still, startling as it may seem, he was even then able to raise his hands to his head, and at the request of Dr. Pope clasped the hand of your correspondent with a tight grip.

"Never in all my experience," said Dr. Pope, "have I seen such a phenomenon. When a man's pulse ceases to beat he usually dies; but Mr. Kerr can lift his arms and legs and talk at times in a loud voice." Where the mysterious strength, the wonderful tenacity, came from, is a problem for the savants to solve.

The Place Where He Died.

The Alum Springs are situated in a charming little park enclosed on all sides by high mountains locally known as the North Mountains, but really a portion of the Blue Ridge. The nearest railroad station is Millboro, five miles, but tourists from the north and east alight at Goshen, and take a stage ride of eight miles. There is absolutely nothing here but mountains and alum water. One can travel miles without meeting a human habitation unless it is the hut of the half hunter and half farmer, who between his gun and his corn patch ekes out a living. Still the scenery is grand, the air is pure and bracing, the mountains are covered with luxuriant forests, and the most profound quiet reigns over all. Forty years ago an adventurous speculator laid out these grounds. The springs had been known to the hunters and Indians doubtless from time immemorial. For many years it was one of the chief summer resorts of the Southern people of wealth and fashion. The waters burst from the base of a cliff of shales several hundred feet in height. These springs are five in number. The strength of the water varies from mild No. 1 to very strong No. 5. A chemical analysis shows the waters to contain iron persulphate, aluminum, magnesia, free sulphuric acid, silicic acid, and a number of other ingredients. The taste is highly acid, with a strong flavor of alum by no means unpleasant. Visitors usually like it at the start, and in their zeal to profit by its healing virtues, drink too freely. This was Mr. Kerr's misfortune. Under the direction of the resident physician, Dr. Davis, he began in light doses, but rapidly increased the quantity. For a time he seemed to gain strength and spirits, and was able to take daily drives with Mrs. Kerr. He was also able to promenade the long verandahs of the hotel, and could even walk down stairs without assistance. Suddenly the water produced a return of the violent diarrhœa which Mr. Kerr had suffered in Washington. And from this relapse he did not recover.

For a long time Mr. Kerr had been satisfied that his end was near. To friends who sought to cheer him by professing to see in his looks change for the better, he simply replied: "No, I am no better; I am worse. I am not getting well." So important was truth held to be by him that he never allowed himself to indulge in the little exaggerated flatteries and adulations so common to most people. He had been called an austere man. Nothing can be farther from the truth. His affections were always strong and permanent. His sympathies were ready and powerful. In his law practice he made it a rule to remit the charges for services rendered needy persons, and many a widow to-day blesses his name for his kindness, and thousands of dollars in fees remain on his books. One of his last injunctions to his son was that those books must be closed to the world.

His Religious Views.

A few days before his death, Mr. Kerr had a conversation with his son, in the course of which he said: "I have nothing to leave you, my son, except my good name. Guard it and your mother's honor, and live as I have lived." He leaves very little of this world's goods—not enough to supply his family with a living. In the same conversation he further said: "Pay all my debts if my estate will warrant it without leaving your mother penniless; otherwise, pay what you can, and then go to my creditors and tell them the truth, and pledge your honor to wipe out the indebtedness."

In religious matters Mr. Kerr was a liberal thinker. He might be said to have been a Rationalist, accepting nothing which did not bear the impress of probability. Without admitting the divinity of Jesus Christ, he was an advocate of his code of morals. To be honest and true and just was in his belief to be a good Christian. Early Saturday afternoon he was visited by the Rev. Mr. Harris, President of the Female Seminary at Staunton, who, with a view to sounding him as to his religious views, asked: "I hope you are prepared for a better life hereafter, Mr. Kerr?"

The reply was a prompt inclination of the head in the affirmative.

Again the minister asked, "I trust you have a firm faith in the merits of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ?"

After a moment's hesitation, in which he seemed to be carefully weighing the question, Mr. Kerr shook his head slowly. It was a fine distinction to make, and one worthy of the fine analytical mind which maintained the supremacy to the last.

Finding that Speaker Kerr could not carry on a conversation, Mr. Harris promised to pray for him, to which Mr. Kerr whispered, "I thank you."

To Mr. Cox's inquiry whether he was content to die, he nodded a tranquil assent.

Thus passed away one of the best and purest of men, and one of the ablest and truest of American statesmen—a man whose integrity was religion, and whose inheritance to his descendants is his untarnished honor.

The Remains on the Way to their Final Resting Place.

WASHINGTON, August 21.—The following telegram was received from Hon. S. S. Cox this afternoon:

ROCK BRIDGE ALUM SPRINGS.

Mr. Adams and Mr. Sayler arrived here this morning with a casket. The remains are embalmed, and the escort will leave for Washington this evening, and arrive there at seven in the morning, and thence start by the first train for the West.

Vice President Ferry has delayed his departure for Michigan, and will accompany the remains of the late Speaker to their final resting place at New Albany, Ind.

When the remains of the late Speaker arrive here Sergeant-at-Arms Thompson will take charge of them. He is in favor of having them lie in state one day in the rotunda of the Capitol. Speaker Sayler, before leaving last night for Rockbridge Alum Springs, also strongly favored such a course. This will depend very much on the feelings of Mrs. Kerr in this respect.

THE NEW JERSEY OUTLAWS.

The Capture of the Gang Who Murdered Old Farmer Chiseled, in Elwood.

PHILADELPHIA, August 21.—Jack Hill, John Fullman, and Isaac Dayton, the New Jersey outlaws, who murdered old Farmer Chiseled, at Elwood, on the night of the 6th of August, firing a load of buckshot into his neck and rifling his house of $50—all the money he had—were arrested in Muncy, Pa., last night, and were brought to this city this morning. Fullman's mother is employed as a servant by Thomas Lyon, an ice dealer in this city, and, by intercepting a letter to Mrs. Fullman from her son, the whereabouts of the murderers was ascertained. Lieut. Everly, of the Philadelphia police, went to Muncy yesterday, and returned to Philadelphia this morning with the prisoners. They are half-clad, dirty, and illiterate, and refuse to say anything except that when they ascertained that the residents of Atlantic county were hunting for them through the swamps they escaped to Camden and traveled westward, hoping to get employment on some Lake Erie vessel. The proof against them is conclusive, and there is hardly a possibility of their escaping the gallows. They are to be given to the New Jersey authorities.

NEWS FROM ABROAD.

The Freshest Gleanings from the Old World.

A BATTLE BETWEEN TURKS AND SERVIANS.

Rumors of Mediation and Speedy Peace.

THE WAR IN TURKEY.

CONSTANTINOPLE, August 21.—The Greek Minister has presented a note to the Porte from the Greek Government, demanding that Turkey grant the requests of the Cretans, because their discontent is reaching the people of Greece.

Ali Saile Pasha is marching on Alexinatz simultaneously with Eyoule Pasha. Alexinatz and Delegrad, it is expected, will surely fall.

LONDON, August 21.—A special from Alexinatz, dated the 18th instant, states that General Tchernayeff has removed his headquarters to Delegrad, where he has massed 30,000 men for a final stand. The abandonment of Alexinatz is contemplated.

A special from Berlin says it is stated that General Tchernayeff's reports of victory have changed the peaceful disposition of the Russian Government. Even the Czar is confidently expecting a favorable change in the position of the Servians, and has abandoned his mediatory efforts. It is asserted the Porte possesses undeniable proofs that Russian consular agents have been inciting the insurrection in Bulgaria.

BELGRADE, August 21.—Since the Cabinet council held here on Saturday last the peace party appears to have gained ground, and an early conclusion of an armistice is thought probable. Fighting was proceeding through yesterday in the direction of Alexinatz. No official account of the result has yet been communicated here, from which it is apprehended the Servians were worsted.

VIENNA, August 21.—A special from Belgrade to the Political Correspondence states that overtures were made to Servia to-day by the diplomatic agents of England, France, Italy, and the three great northern powers, looking to negotiations for peace.

A Vienna special asserts that Prince Milan, in spite of the exertions of the war party to the contrary, has received the communications of England with considerable favor, and is personally inclined to apply to the powers for mediation.

LONDON, August 22.—A telegram from Semlin says 40,000 Turks, Keron Pasha commanding, met the Servians between Supovatz and Alexinatz on Sunday. They made several attacks, but were everywhere repulsed. One wing of the Servian army even successfully assumed the offensive. The battle was renewed on Monday. It is considered probable that the Servians will fall back to Alexinatz, and a decisive battle will be fought there. If the Servians win that fight the war will be continued. If the Turks are victorious the Servians will be willing to conclude peace.

A Turkish official dispatch from Nissa reports that the Ottoman forces have defeated the Servians near Alexinatz, and occupied their positions, adding that the Servian losses were considerable.

A special from Belgrade confirms the report of the repulse of the Turks on Sunday, but says in spite of that check the Turks have renewed the attack, and the result of the second fight is not yet known. If they take Alexinatz and Deligrad, Kerim Pasha has the highway to Belgrade. Gen. Tchernayeff has 79,000 men, but Kerim Pasha's already large army has been reinforced by 40,000 men.

MOROCCO.

PARIS, August 21.—The Emperor of Morocco has declared his inability to send his customary subsidy to the Sultan of Turkey, owing to the heavy drain on his resources, caused by the repressing of disturbances in his own dominions.

GREAT BRITAIN.

DUBLIN, August 21.—The Irish Rifle Team for America has been completed by the addition of Mr. Ward, a gentleman reported to be a fine shot.

GENERAL TCHERNAYEFF.

A Sketch of the New Commander-in-Chief.

A correspondent writing from Prince Milan's headquarters thus sketches the career of General Tchernayeff, the Servian Commander-in-Chief:

According to a rumor, which I have good reason for believing correct, Schernayeff took with him on leaving Paratchin his commission as Commander-in-Chief of the entire Servian army. We may, therefore, conclude that from this time Generals Zasch and Alimpitch and Colonel Leschjanin will look to him for orders. The great responsibility which now falls upon the General will make the account of his military life interesting. No doubt much has already been written about him, but I can vouch for the correctness of the following brief biography: Tchernayeff belongs to an old noble Russian family. He was born in 1828. At twenty years of age, when he had finished his special studies in the regiment of the imperial court, which then existed, he was appointed "praporstshik" (adjutant) in the "Paul" regiment of guards. In 1851, after renewed study at the Military Academy of Nicolaieff, he completed his military education by specially studying the science of artillery. He began his actual career as a soldier in 1853, when he was appointed staff major of the Fourth corps, which was then operating along the Danube. He afterward distinguished himself in the Crimea, at Sebastopol, in the Caucasus and in Central Asia. It would take too long to enumerate the various degrees of his services as officer, State major, commander-in-chief, &c.

From 1853 to 1866 he was constantly fighting, taking part in twenty-three battles on the Danube and twenty-four in the Caucasus. In Central Asia, where he was commander-in-chief, he fought twenty times. In the Crimea he fought nearly twenty more. His services seem always to have been well rewarded. At the age of twenty-six he was chief-of-staff, at thirty-four he was quartermaster general of a large Russian army corps, at thirty-five he was chief-of-staff to the army of Orenburg, at thirty-six he was found directing the military operations in Central Asia, returning to Russia bearing the title of brigadier general, and since then he has served as governor in several of the Turkestan provinces, which he helped to conquer. This rapid and brilliantly successful military career soon brought every honor. He could gird himself with a perfect arsenal of swords of "honor" and his breast is literally aglow with the shining crosses and medals of Russia. In 1867 he left the service, with the right of a pension, and subsequently he was told he might wear the uniform of his class as long as he lived. He was married and devoted a good deal of his time to the education of his children. He was again called upon to bear arms, but after a while retired, as he says, definitely, in June, 1875.

Returning thus to private life he devoted himself assiduously to literature, becoming proprietor and editor in chief of the Russian World (Le Rouski Mir). I am told that his career as a journalist was much less brilliant than his military record, for as a writer he is very weak, and his compatriots esteem him infinitely more for his services with the sword than with the pen. I am also told that from the time he left the Russian army he has never relinquished the idea of employing his sword in the service of Slav independence. Such is the man in whom the Slavs have placed all their dearest hopes. If he is victorious and if he means well by the Yougo-Slavs, regardless of the fact that he is a Russian, history will make him a great hero. Physically, the General is Russian in the strictest sense. His uniform is that simply of a commander of the Servian army, without any special distinguishing decoration, and his arms consist of a regulation sword and a brace of handsome revolvers.

A Post Office Robber Arrested.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 21.—Jas. Bowman, register clerk in the post office here, formerly a member of the Legislature, has been arrested on a charge of robbing the mails. He was brought before the United States Commissioner to-day, and held to answer proofs of guilt apparently conclusive. Gold notes were found in his possession which had been placed in decoy letters. The depredations have been carried on for a long time.

Another Horrible Outrage.

WHEELING, W. VA., August 21.—It is reported this evening that a school mistress was waylaid a few days since at Glencoe, Ohio, and outraged, after which the ruffians cut out her tongue and otherwise mutilated her person. There are no names given, and no arrests as yet.

A Wedding in a Balloon.

DAYTON, O., August 21.—There will be a balloon ascension at the Soldiers' Home on Thursday, on which occasian a couple will be married by Rev. Dr. Winters, of this city.

Pennsylvania Female College.

PITTSBURGH, EAST END, PA.

The essentials of a College designed for the Education of Young ladies, must necessarily comprise both Domestic and Educational advantages, the former embracing a Building, which is complete and well adapted in all its appointments of sight; pure atmosphere; an outlook of natural scenery, at once grand and inspiring; and internal arrangements as to Heat and Light, commodious recitation rooms; sleeping apartments, with a full and home-like suite of furniture. In addition to these material appliances, the Home Life must be of that high order of refinement and Christian culture which is elevating in tone, and genial in its influence: the unconscious government which moulds the character, and develops the inner life, so as to mature a perfect woman-hood. The Education of the intellect, without this, is worse than a nullity, it is a positive evil; but combined with the higher culture of the heart, and the gentle society of a Christian Home, a unique and harmonious training is secured, the influence of which will be fruitful of lasting good.

The Educational Department of a Female College must be complete in the range of its curriculum, elevated as to standard, thorough as to training, and so administered as to develop the individualism of the student, as well as the reasoning powers of the mind.

The demands of the age call for something more than superficial instruction, and questionable inducements, solid acquirements, and realized educational results, will alone meet these demands.

From personal knowledge—and also from the testimony of patrons—we can, with the most positive assurance, recommend the Pennsylvania Female College of Pittsburgh as meeting most fully the above mentioned conditions. The Building in all its arrangements is admirably adapted to the purposes designed; it is beautifully located on Fifth Avenue, in the East End, with a range of grounds and picturesqueness of scenery which is unsurpassed; the surroundings, comprise the elegant residences and beautiful lawns of some of our most prominent citizens.

The internal appointments of the Home, are complete; no expense has been spared, in order to render every department perfect in its arrangements, as well as promotive of comfort.

The corps of Instructors is equal to that of any of our first class Colleges for Young Ladies; and is fully adequate to the work of Higher and Solid Education, as well as the more Æsthetic department of Music and its correlatives in the Fine Arts.

We can assure parents that in this Institution they will be certain to find everything which is promised in the Catalogue fully realized, and equal to their expectations.

Persons desiring information can apply either in person or by letter to the Rev. Thomas C. Strong, D. D., the President of the College.

The Collegiate year opens September 13th. We understand that applications for entrance are increasing; so that to secure admission for the coming year, it is absolutely necessary to be prompt in presenting an application.

THE LIFE OF ONE QUEEN.

The Varying Fortunes of Queen Isabella.

The ex-Qeen Isabella has returned to the country from which she was ignominiously ejected nearly eight years ago. There are few sovereigns living at this day whose past is so full of dramatic interest as that of Dona Isabella II. In 1833, at the age of three years, she was raised to the throne of Ferdinand the Catholic, in consequence of the arbitrary repeal of the Salic law by her father, Ferdinand VII. For seven years after this her supporters waged a sanguinary war against her uncle, Don Carlos, who claimed the throne by virtue of the old Spanish law of succession; and when he had been overtaken at last by the treason of Maroto, her own generals, Espartero and O'Donnell, fought for three years over the spoils, and the former having the better of the fight, sent her mother, Dona Christina, into exile. In 1843 Espartero was overthrown in his turn, and the Queen declared of age. Three years later, in 1846, old Louis Phillippe dealt with her and her sister, the Infanta Luisa, as mere tools of his policy, and in this way the "Spanish marriages" were brought about by which a war nearly arose between France and England. For two and twenty years after this there was not a more unhappy being in the world than this Queen, who, on the one hand, was joined to a husband for whom she could have no affection, and on the other was subjected to the fluctuating influences of miserable counsellors, not one of whom, with the sole exception of Narvaez, kept faith with her. When at last, on the 29th of September, 1868, she was driven into exile, a period of peace and rest began for her, and of strife and misery for unhappy Spain. Her position will now be a most delicate one—a Queen living near the throne, but not on the throne—and little good is hoped for from this state of things, either for her or for her country.

The Chicago Board of Education.

CHICAGO, August 21.—The Committee on Judiciary of the City Council, to whom was referred the resolution of the Board of Education asking the Council to investigate the charges made against some members of the board in anonymous letters read in Council reported to-night that the charges made were so indefinite that the committee consider it unnecessary, futile and undesirable to investigate. The only specific charge is that a ring existed in the board. This allegation cannot be proven or disproven by any power in the hands of the Council. It is a matter for the Courts to try or for the personal reputation of members to bear. The anonymous charges referred to are those made by Hanford and others, which was the direct cause of the Sullivan-Hanford shooting tragedy.

Central Pacific Railroad.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 21.—The defendant's motion to dissolve the injunction in the case of the stockholders against the Directors of the Central Pacific Railroad, restraining the latter from using money of the corporation to pay interest on bonds of the California Pacific, was denied by the Court this morning.

Mangled on the Rail.

WHEELING, W. Va., August 21.—John Mills, an employe in the Baltimore & Ohio railroad yards, at Bellaire, Ohio, fell from a freight car and was horribly mangled yesterday, dying shortly after.

KING, REED & CO.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 22, 1876.

PETROLEUM at Antwerp 40f.

BONDS at Frankfort, new 5s, 102½.

GOLD closed in New York yesterday at 110⅞.

COMMODORE VANDERBILT still lives, but is liable to drop off at any moment. He is really sinking gradually, and yet his strong vitality resists the inroads of disease, and he continues to live despite attacks that threaten speedy dissolution.

EVEN the New York Herald, which does not hesitate to sustain everything Democratic that it can, is outspoken in its hostility to the reduction of pay among the naval officers. It characterizes the bill as more than foolish and palpably dishonest. It is quite evident that the bill was never submitted to experts, and was drawn with a view of striking certain parties, and not of making an equitable and just reduction in the salaries of naval officers. It was part of an insane political scheme to gain reputation by the violence and unjustice of economy.

THE last phase of the WAGNER festival has passed, the great composer has been honored with a silver wreath, crowning him as the old Romans were crowned, with silver substituted for laurel, and he has told the aim and purpose of his efforts. Italy and France have great operas of their own, and he has sought to compose one worthy the great German name. That now given to the world is the result of this ambition. The festival closed with a grand banquet, and the banquet closed with a jubilee of hand-shaking, and of congratulations. The full success of the composition was recognized by LISZT, and the "Ring of Nieblung" stands recognized among the great musical works of the world.

THE President has given utterance to the reasons which impelled him to issue the order for troops to be held in readiness for use in the South. He has been quietly investigating affairs on his own account, and he claims to have ample evidence, not only of a conspiracy at the South to overcome the true majority in each of the several States, but by murder and terrorism wrest them from their legitimate position under the Government. This he is determined to prevent. Whatever an honest election may result in he is satisfied with, but he is determined that murder shall not be a factor in the problem unless the parties are willing to receive the penalty of their crimes. He is right in his position and all honest men will sustain him.

THE stars have been invoked in the interest of TILDEN and HENDRICKS, and these, taking the letters of their names, and suitably combining them, have determined that they are to be elected. The stars, in their courses, fought against SISERA, but it was less on account of the letters in his name than because of the badness of his character and cause. When the stars get interested in a railroad wrecker, and attempt to help him along, they will be doing violence to their historical record. They have usually, thus far, sustained truth and right, and have a loftier mission than to aid the fallen fortunes of the Democratic party. At best, we strongly think that the votes of the American people will have more to do with the election of the next President—and those votes will be largely for HAYES and WHEELER.

THERE will be something of a struggle in the New York State Republican Convention over the admission of city delegates. The State Committee directed that the call for the election of delegates should include all Republican electors, and all other voters without regard to past political differences, who are willing to unite in the support of HAYES and WHEELER. The Custom House crowd deliberately ignored this order, and threw all the limitations possible around the election in order to carry their points. The result is the Independent Republican Central Committee, backed by the Reform Club, have called and held delegate elections in strict accordance with the requirements of the State Committee, and these will claim seats in the State Convention. It will really be better for Republicanism in New York if they are admitted. The Custom House party has already reached the point that expiring dynasties always come to, that of attempting to ruin where they cannot rule.

THE war in Servia proceeds with such varying prospects and success, that it is difficult to form a reliable opinion of its probable outcome. Undoubtedly the Turks, thus far, have gained the most substantial victories, and have dealt severe blows to the Servians. The Montenegrins, on the other hand, have severely punished the Turks, and have inflicted severe losses on their forces. The Russians are exceedingly restive, and should even the people go so far as to enlist in the Servian cause, irrespective of any attitude the Government might take, the Turks would have all they could manage. The Cretes have showed a restiveness that is liable, at any moment to result in open warfare, thus adding a new contestant against the Turks. It is within the sphere of possibilities that Russia may officially enter the field, which will end the power of the Turks in Europe, unless England throws itself against the civilization of the age by supporting the worst barbarism now on the face of the earth.

THE Louisiana Democrats, being rather impressed with the President's idea of asking troops, in case fighting, is to be made an ornamental feature of the election canvass at the South, have concluded to try moral suasion, of a certain kind. The New Orleans Picayune suggests another kind of gentle pressure—of course prefacing the plan with an injunction to do "no injustice in any event." This plan, in brief, is to notify the colored population who live by working for white employers that their bread depends upon their voting for the Democratic ticket. "The experiment of reasoning with colored men," we are told, "has been often tried and as often failed." That is what the Democrats in every Southern State declare. Since "reasoning" fails, then the negroes are to be threatened with loss of employment should they dare to act with the Republican "enemy." In that event, they are to be branded as enemies of the employing class, and are to be superseded by "a more reliable class of laborers." We read the warning literally. It shows how the Louisiana Democrats interpret enfranchisement, and in what sense they are prepared to respect the rights of the colored people.

THE Centennial has illustrated that American skill in mechanics quite equals that of the foreign countries represented in the great Exposition. This is accounted for in part by the difficulty and expense of shipping heavy goods, and in part by the general feeling said to exist among foreign makers that there is little use in trying to get an American market in competition with the protected American makers. But it is also generally stated now that there are some important branches of machinery and tools which the Americans are competing with foreigners in the markets of the latter. American machine-tools go in considerable numbers to England and in still greater to the Continent, while such implements as shovels enjoy an extensive sale in the English Colonies, and especially in Australia. It is evident that with the advantages resulting from protection continued, the manufacturers of this country will, in a little while, have no occasion to fear the competition of Europe, even in the home market, and irrespective of the tariff.

SENATOR MORTON offers a careful and candid estimate of the struggle in Indiana, regarding the State election as the battle-ground of the canvass. The Democracy, he recognizes, will expend their full power on that State, because of its absolute importance to them. Should they lose Indiana in the forthcoming State election, they can have no well-grounded hopes of success at all. It is, too, HENDRICKS' own State, where he is Governor, and to lose it is a personal reflection against his home popularity. With all this, the Senator thinks the Republicans will carry the State, although by a close and fiercely contested vote. It is very certain that the Republicans fully understand the importance of the contest there, and are fully aroused to the duty of putting forth their best efforts. The National Committee has also determined to render the requisite aid, and this is of importance. Altogether, the contest will be strong and even bitter, and the outcome will go far toward determining Presidential results. We are quite sure of Ohio, but the Republicans desire and should gain Indiana as well.

HARRIET MARTINEAU is reported by M. D. CONWAY to have strongly expressed, on her dying bed, her disbelief in the immortality of the soul. We have little faith in the reported disavowal of the highest aspirations and lougings of our nature, on the dying bed. Much has been said of such declarations, from noted persons in the past, but, when sifted, most of such reports were either entirely dissipated or materially modified and changed. Miss MARTINEAU was an original, peculiar, and highly sensitive woman, who lived a secluded and painful life, away from the busy stir of surrounding life, and may have fallen into a hypochondriac feeling; but that with clear and unclouded mind, she deliberately expressed her disbelief in human immortality, we do not believe. The circulation of reports, such as Mr. CONWAY repeats, serves only to injure a class of persons who are ready to receive any expression unfavorable to Christian teaching, when backed by a prominent name, so that it is at least important that such expressions should be fully and clearly verified, before being sent forth. THE BUSINESS O[illegible]

England is still in the depth[illegible] ness depression, such as she ha[illegible] perienced for a long time, if w[illegible] the general statements made b[illegible] We have seen, of late, statements that were designed to produce the conviction that labor was largely employed and well compensated there; but the facts are evidently against it. The same general truth explains the situation in this country. Prices are down; labor is only employed so far as it is absolutely necessary, and then at generally reduced rates. In New York there have been several strikes, but these were against the laws of trade. An attempt to increase the price of a given kind of labor, at a time when the market is over-supplied, is simply absurd. Such operations do not prove that capital is imposing on labor, but really illustrate that there is a community of interest, as in the efforts of the Eastern laborers to increase their compensation, they have utterly failed. Hence they have simply proven that they were not equal to the capitalists, a fact that proves that the labor supply is greater there than the demand. The bearing of this on the general business outlook is that of depression. It shows that there has been a large falling off in the activity of trade. We believe that such is the fact, and that the flatness of business throughout the country has not been equalled for many years.

It is, however, a question whether all this has not reached a limit, and hence that we may expect a return of prosperity, ere long. There are a number of facts and indications which point to this result. Putting aside, as not reliable, the fact that all prostrations, following financial panics, have usually lasted only from three to four years, the trade sales, and inquiry for goods at the East, show that there is an improving demand, to supply the actual and necessary wants of the people. This is tangible and reliable. It proves that the supplies, gathered, but unused in the days of prosperity, and that have been made to do service in the time of adversity, are about exhausted. Demand is what regulates supply, and the supply of saleable goods creates a demand for labor. This is the spring of all our prosperity. If labor can be employed, we must have a speedy return of prosperity, through all this land. Another indication is the evidently increased traffic of the railroads. They are now moving freights in such abundance that they are seriously considering the propriety of abandoning their low rates, and putting the entire business on a solid basis. The absence of sufficient freights is what has led to the railroad wars. The return of sufficient freights is the reason for the return to more reliable business. We judge from these and other indications, that we are on the eve of a general revival in business, the results of which will be felt far and wide through the country. We only trust that the good days will speedily come.

CAMPING.

The arrangement of time for the several camp meetings, contiguous to this city, has differed this year from the past, in that they will all be in operation at about the same time, in place of accomodating each other in that respect. This makes, however, less difference than at first sight may be imagined, owing to the fact that the several meetings have their separate patronizing territories. Sewickley draws principally on Allegheny, and the country centreing around the meeting itself. Allegheny Valley takes the Pittsburgh churches, and the valley in which it is located, as far as Freeport. Loyalhanna takes the East End churches, and the stretch of country along the Pennsylvania Railroad as far as Johnstown. Patterson's Grove has the South Side churches, and the country above McKeesport. Thus each has its well-defined patronizing territory, and when held at separate periods there was but little variation from the lines of territory indicated, so far as regular attendance was concerned. There is not, therefore, any injury to the interest of the several meetings growing out of the unity as to time.

The several camp meetings afford the only convenient opportunity or occasion for the residents of our city to enjoy the out-of-door life that has grown to be so important as an element of summer enjoyment. Our city is unfortunately situated, so far as watering place recreations are concerned. The ceaseless flow of our rivers takes from them the advantages for boating and fishing that are desired. The distance and expense of reaching the Eastern watering places prevent those of moderate means availing themselves of them. Hence the camp meeting is a means of recreation, as well as of religious enjoyment and good, and thus has a place in the recreative and sanitary relations of the people. Whatever may be said of the impropriety of considering these meetings from a recreative standpoint, it is undeniable that they are so regarded by the many. All this, however, does not prevent the accomplishment of good, and we judge the effort in that direction, this year will be unusually positive and successful. Some of the celebrated preachers of the Methodist church, including one or two of the bishops will be present, and the meetings will be conducted with special reference to religious results. While the camp meetings have wonderfully modernized of late years it does not follow that they have lost in interest and power. The present year, it is currently understood that the several meetings will be conducted with the most earnest reference to religious success. At all events, they begin the present week, and for the next ten days they will be an element of attraction for those who enjoy life in the woods.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

THE MIKADO'S EMPIRE. Two volumes. Book I, Being a History of Japan from 660 B. C. to 1872 A. D. Book II, Being Personal Experiences, Observations and Studies from 1870 to 1874. By William Elliott Griffis, A. M., late of the Imperial University of Tokio, Japan. Published by Harper & Bros., New York, and for sale in Pittsburgh by R. S. Davis & Co., corner of Fifth avenue and Wood street.

This is an exceedingly interesting volume. It tells of the history, the habits, the peculiarities, manners and customs of a race that is just now exciting especial attention in the civilized world. The writer, during a sojourn of eight years in Japan, gathered the knowledge of the land and the people, with which he has enriched the volume. He writes somewhat floridly, but never allows the flowers of rhetoric to so cover up the facts that they are not clearly intelligible. It is brimfull of information, and the story is so well told that the reader is captivated from the outstart.

YOUNG FOLKS' CENTENNIAL RHYMES. By Will Carleton, author of Farm Ballads, &c. Illustrated. Published by Harper & Bros., New York, and for sale in Pittsburgh by R. S. Davis & Co., corner Wood street and Fifth avenue.

This is a volume of "Revolutionary stories" done up in rhyme. Its purpose is to attract the young folks to the study of the history of our land. The rhymes are supplemented with notes, which explain the historical references. The work is fairly done, and the book is a good Centennial gift for the young folks, and cannot be but an inspiration that will lead them to a further study of our history. It is handsomely illustrated.

[illegible] Democrats displayed their chronic incapacity to appreciate and improve their opportunities.

GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS is to go to the New York Republican State Convention, and is to use his influence for the nomination of either Evarts or ex-Governor Morgan.

THE Democratic candidate for Attorney General of Indiana is, according to the Indianapolis Journal, a eulogist of Vallandigham, principal mover in a bill to increase the pay of legislators and a salary grabber.

AN Eddyville, Iowa, lawyer is running for office, and he is playing it fine on the guileless agriculturalists. When he sees an unusual number of farm teams in town he locks his office doors and pastes the following legend on the outside: "Gone home to stack my hay; back in two hours."

SOME of the newspapers assert that the President is turning out of office in Kentucky every man who is supposed to be a friend of Bristow's. This is not true. He has just appointed to one of the best offices in the State a gentleman by the name of Goodloe, who howled loudest and longest for Bristow in the Cincinnati Convention.

MR. J. NEWTON FIERO, an Ulster county Liberal, has written a letter in which he says: "The crimes of the Democracy have ever been committed, ratified, and approved by the party. The blunders of Republicanism are those of its recreant representatives, and are distinctly disavowed by the leaders and utterly repudiated by the masses." He will vote for Hayes and Wheeler.

Don't Imitate Men of Genius.

The man who believes in debt, and cites plenty of men of genius who run in debt, is either silly enough to suppose himself a genius or to mistake folly for genius. Men who write wisely against running in debt may also, like many other preachers, fail utterly to practice their own preaching. Thus, Lord Bacon wrote on the wisdom of business, and ran desperately in debt. Men of genius are not always ninnies in their expenditures, though we can recall thousands who are, from Bacon to Webster. Men of genius may also be able, like Pitt and Webster, to have the most correct ideas of public finances, and yet fail utterly in managing their own affairs. Pitt received never less than equal to $30,000 a year, sometimes equal to $50,000, and died equal to $200,000 in debt. Sheridan was another spendthrift, and spent all of his first wife's fortune in six weeks, and the fortune of his second wife in a few months. Fox was a great gamester, and at one sitting of twenty hours lost equal to $55,000. It is just this kind of genius which should have no imitators, and which has proved the misery of thousands of families and the dishonor of all the men who indulge in such personal extravagance and plunder of other people's property.

A Weird Thought.

You have seen a man in the crowded assembly, says Burdette, of the Burlington Hawkeye, a grave, earnest-looking man, with the stamp of genius and the lines of lofty aspiration and noble impulse on his face, suddenly spring from his seat with the pallor of a heart-pain lighting his face with its ghastly glare, while he hastens from the curious glances that are bent upon him, into the pitying shadow of the silent night. And a bitter, cynical smile curves your lips when you hear your wife pity him, for you know, from sad, heart-breaking experience, that a man who fastens the after-end of his suspender with a pin has no business to lean back in his chair.

Her View of It.

"Suppose, Belle," said a poor but honest Chicago youth to a Prairie avenue girl one day this week, "suppose that a young man loved you dearly—very dearly—but was afraid to ask you to marry him—maybe because he was very timid, or felt too poor, or something—what would you think of such a case?"

"Think?" answered the girl immediately. "Why, if he was poor, I should think that he was doing just right in keeping still about it."

The question was dropped right there.

THE POETRY OF WINE.

He Touched 'em Up Professionally—An Old Actor's Cuteness.

An old fellow who gave his name as Charles H. Slossman was called up in Judge Wright's Court, in Virginia City, on the charge of drunkenness. He was a remarkably seedy-looking specimen, arrayed in a dirty check shirt and a pair of loose, baggy trousers, which were prevented from falling off by a leather strap knotted about his waist. He was shivering and trembling from the effects of a well sustained debauch, and hardly had the physical strength to stand upright. When the Judge asked him if he had anything to say, he rose up in a sort of disjointed way and demanded a jury, which was granted, and when his turn came, he advanced with a shuffling tread, and bending his eye on his "peers," began:

"Gentlemen of the Jury—I stand here to-day less a defender of my own personal debasement than an example of human depravity, which, like a beacon light, should warn you from the ragged rocks of intemperance. A man in my condition is like a rude sign-post I once saw in Tennessee, which pointed up a road over which the green grass was beginning to wave. On the sign was the inscription 'Small-pox,' and the index finger of a hand pointing westward. If any of you, in traveling along a highway, saw such a sign as that, you would pause upon the brink of a deadly danger and turn backward. [Sensation.]

"Gentlemen of the jury, as you peruse the pages of the old poets, you will see how they have deified the wine cup. They have wreathed it with the flowers of fancy, surrounded it with the halo of song, and peopled its bloody depths with the creatures of their own bright imaginations, until one might almost believe it to be the wellspring of human happiness, when bitter experience tells us in very different language that it is the fountain head of misery, the abode of the demon that destroys our very lives. [Here one of the jurors wiped away a tear with his coat-sleeve.] There is something which comes up in the fumes of the cup that fools call inspiration, but it is a cunning reptile which, crawling up from the dregs of the grape, enters the window of the brain and steals away like a thief in the night with our reason fast in his embrace. [Here the speaker poured and took a drink of water.] There is a hand in the wine cup which, at any moment, may put its iron grip upon your throat and strangle you as a strong man might a babe. [Here several of the jury pulled down their collars.] Gentlemen of the jury, I have not long to stay. Two mighty miners are delving on this lode—Time and Death. They are daily at their posts, working together side by side as one eternal shift, clearing away the rubbish of waste rock and pushing along the ledge. Before long I shall be gathered into the vast laboratory of death, a piece of useless porphyry, to be cast into the waste dumps of perdition!" Here the old fellow pulled from his pocket a red handkerchief and began to sob. The effect was immediate and striking. The old miners and the jury, moved by his forcible simile, broke forth into a simultaneous sob, in which the Court, spectators, and prosecuting attorney joined. The Chronicle reporter was so moved that he was obliged to go out and brace up with a stiff cocktail. The jury were obliged to find him guilty, but recommended him to the mercy of the Court. He was accordingly fined five dollars, which the jury paid on the spot, and the old man slid out of the door with the remark: "I knew I'd ketch 'em. Blast my buttons, didn't I work up the briny, though, didn't I?" A subsequent investigation led to the discovery that the bum was an ex-actor from 'Frisco, who was just giving the jury a touch of his profession.

Boy Nature.

I have thought that the boy is the only true lover of Nature, and that we who make such a dead set at studying and admiring her come very wide of the mark. "The nonchalance of a boy who is sure of his dinner," says our Emerson, "is the healthy attitude of humanity." The boy is a part of Nature; he is as indifferent, as careless, as vagrant as she. He browses, he digs, he hunts, he climbs, he halloos, he [illegible]eds on roots, and greens, and mast. He [illegible]es things roughly and without sentiment. The coolness with which boys will drown [illegible]gs or cats, or hang them to trees, or [illegible]urder young birds, or torture frogs or [illegible]quirrels, is like Nature's own merciless[illegible]

Certain it is that we often get some of the best touches of nature from children. [illegible]hildhood is a world by itself, and we lis[illegible] to children when they frankly speak [illegible] of it with a strange interest. There is [illegible] a freedom from responsibility and [illegible] worldly wisdom—it is heavenly wis[illegible]. There is no sentiment in children, [illegible] there is no ruin; nothing has gone [illegible] decay about them yet—not a leaf or [illegible]. Until he is well into his teens, and [illegible]metimes later, a boy is like a bean pod [illegible] the fruit has developed—indefinite, [illegible]culent, rich in possibilities which are [illegible] vaguely outlined. He is a pericarp [illegible]. How rudimental are all his ideas. [illegible] a boy who began his school compo[illegible] on swallows by saying there were [illegible] kinds of swallows—chimney swallows [illegible] swallows. Girls come to themselves [illegible], are indeed from the first more deft [illegible] and "translatable."—Galaxy for September.

Profits from Soda Water.

The hot weather suggests a little inquiry into the profits of the soda water business. The cans containing ten gallons of carbonated water, are furnished to the druggists at $2.25 each. The common soda tumbler contains about one-half pint. If the glasses were filled full every time, the can would furnish 160 glasses of soda. As the glasses are seldom if ever filled more than two-thirds full of water, the rest being foam, it is estimated that each can furnishes about 200 glasses of soda water. One gallon of syrup is estimated to go with a can of carbonated water, although some retailers give more. Assuming that a gallon and a half of syrup is used, the cost figures up as follows: Charged can, $2.25; gallon and a half of syrup, $2.25; ice, cream for cream syrups, &c., 50 cents; total cost of 200 glasses of soda, $5. At ten cents a glass the retailer receives $20, which looks like a pretty fair profit. At five cents a glass there would be one hundred per centum profit, and at three cents a glass there would be more money in soda than in groceries. To be sure, druggists say that their soda costs them between five and six cents a glass, and no doubt it can be so figured; but anybody who wants iced soda at home at a cost of $3.75 for a charged fountain and a gallon of any kind of syrup, and is willing to pay ten cents a day for ice, will find that he can have 200 glasses of as good soda as he is likely to get anywhere for about two cents a glass.

"Mariar Has Gone to Bed."

A young man in the rural districts had parted his flaxen locks in the most impartial manner; if there was a hair more on one side of his head than on the other the difference could not be observed. He had a tolerable good tenor voice, and he had mastered a new song. The moonlight shone brightly down on the greensward in front of the residence which held the maiden of his heart. The youth crept softly up the sidewalk, and let out his soul in melody, "Darling, I'm waiting for thee, waiting for thee." He had hardly completed the second chorus when a window blind was cautiously opened, something white was seen by the light of the moon, and an oldish voice, not in harmony with the music, said: "It's all right, young man, but you needn't wait any longer; Mariar has gone to bed."

Swiss Customs.

A lady is called upon by a citizen of the Helvetian Republic, who had made her acquaintance during her travels last year.

"To what am I indebted for this unexpected pleasure, M. Zug?"

The honest Swiss smiles greatly, even as far back as his ears; his eyes sparkling with satisfaction and amiability.

"I have been married three weeks, madame, and have now the honor of paying you my wedding visit."

"Then I shall have the honor of making Mme. Zug's acquaintance. She is here?"

The Swiss smiles a still more heavenly smile.

"She is not, madame. I am making my bridal tour alone."

How a King Toils.

King Alfonso leads an active and laborious life. He often starts with a couple of aides-de-camp and a few horse guards to gallop down to the drill ground of his soldiers before 6 in the morning. He is an early riser, and even in the palace studies and reads for three hours every morning before he receives his Ministers. He seldom abstains from the very irksome receptions, even in tropical weather, with 93 degrees in the shade. He is particularly fond of reading English and French works of literature and history, but newspapers are not always allowed to reach him. His principal and favorite amusements are his rides and hunts.

He Did His Duty.

"Do your duty, Potter," said she, "and march behind the band and with the torch of your inexhaustible patriotism illumine the way for your fellow-man, but don't drink beer." When the old man came home and set the mosquito bar on fire with the torch of his inexhaustible patriotism, he moved gracefully but somewhat expeditiously out of the room, attended by the family rocking chair.

Latest Advices Concerning Money and Stock Matters.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
TUESDAY, August 22, 1876.

Monday came in with a clear bracing atmosphere, but the summer spell is still on business and the banks, and the thrall of dullness remains unbroken. The settlements of the past week's business have been made up, but this is all that served to break the dullness of the regular routine. There is nothing in the condition of the money market to justify a change in our comments upon it from those previously given. Capital is abundant at the banks and all other sources, but the lines are strictly drawn between those who are in high favor with lenders and those not so favorably known. The former are supplied on reasonable terms, but the latter are compelled to pay high rates for accommodations. High hopes are entertained of an improvement in the near future, but there is nothing as yet upon which to base any change from previous rates.

—The Herald in a review of the situation in New York for the past week says: "Looking back upon the speculative operations of the week there is little to note which has not been repeatedly the subject of comment. In commercial circles there is still to be heard the same old complaint of stagnation, and the stereotyped expressions that betray the absence of any immediate encouraging features. Exceptionally, however, it is worthy of record that certain lines of dry goods have been in better demand during the past week than usual. The list of domestic manufactures has undergone considerable improvement. The foreign trade also shows gratifying activity, the advance in silks being a noteworthy feature. The report that the cotton crop of this year is not likely to be a very productive one has tended to make the cotton market steady and firmer. The tendency in the merchandise markets, too, has been rather to an advance in coffee, tea and sugar." So there is in some sort a revival of the long deferred hope that better times are coming.

—The scarcity of small change is now felt less severely than at any time since the substitution began. With the advent of cool weather the mints will be run to their full capacity, which will soon be in excess of the demand.

NEW YORK, August 21, 1876.

Money closed easy at 1½@2; prime mercantile paper 3@4. The customs receipts were $391,000. The Assistant Treasurer disbursed $677,000. The clearings were $22,000,000. Sterling was steady at 487@489. Gold opened at 110⅞, declined to 110½, and closed at 110⅞. The carrying rates were ½ to 1½. Loans were also made flat. Governments were dull and weak. Railroad bonds were quiet and firm. State securities were neglected. Stocks were very quiet, except for a few shares, such as the coal roads, Michigan Central and Western Union. The leading feature was a break in Delaware, Lackawanna & Western from 92 to 90⅞, with a reaction at the close to 92½. New Jersey Central opened at 59½, sold up to 60½, and closed at the opening price. There was a difference of ⅛@⅜ between sales of cash and regular. Lake Shore was firm, and Michigan Central strong and higher, while Western Union fell off ⅛ for the day. The transactions aggregated 72,000 shares, of which 14,000 were Western Union, 7,000 St. Pauls, 5,000 Lake Shore, 6,000 Michigan Central, 8,000 New Jersey Central, and 26,000 Delaware, Lackawanna & Western.

LONDON, August 21.—The financial crisis in Portugal originated in the failure of some financial banks in Oporto, and is a revival of the crisis there in May last, when some weak banks were assisted by a stronger institution, and when the Government also advanced money. The bills discounted for the weak banks have now run their course, and as their position is unimproved, the stronger banks refuse to renew the bills. It is expected a large amount of sovereigns, which has gone from the Bank of England, will restore confidence.

David, Martin, Eder & Co., export merchants in Basinghall street, have failed. Their liabilities are £82,000. James and Lewis Frazier & Co., East India merchants, White Lion Court, Cornhill, have suspended. Their liabilities are unknown.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS—WEEKLY REVIEW.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
MONDAY, August 21, 1876.

There has been no perceptible improvement in general business during the past week, but our merchants and manufacturers are expecting an increased trade next month; there has been an unusual dullness all summer, especially in Grain and produce circles. Some of our merchants, although they have reduced their expenses down to the lowest point, report that they are not more than making expenses, and the same is true of some of our manufacturers; we are in hopes, however, that business in all its varied branches, will soon change for the better. Petroleum is an exception to the general rule, as our refiners are all running up to their full capacity. There is also a very fair demand for the Hog products, but prices are easy, and for some kinds lower. Flour continues quiet and unchanged. With the exception of Sugars, for which there is a steady demand, the Grocery trade continues dull. Butter, Eggs and Cheese, in fair request but unchanged. Fruits and Vegetables in good supply, and prices as compared with the date of our last report are lower.

ASHES—Common Soda (48 ℔ cent.) 2¾a3c; Refined do. (58 ℔ cent.) 3¼a4c; Pearls, 7½c; Potash, 6½c; Fluor Spar, 2; Arsenic, 5c; Black Lead, 4c.

ALE—There is no change to note in prices and trade is generally reported dull, like everything else, affected by the hard times. X $8 ℔ bbl to the city and $9 to country; XX $10; India $11. half bbls in proportion.

APPLES—The market continues dull and overstocked, and prices are down so low that commission merchants can scarcely get enough to cover cost of freights, packages and commissions; offering at 50a$1,25 per bbl, as to quality and condition.

BEANS—There is little or no demand; the stock in this market is light as is also the demand—not enough doing to establish quotations.

BUTTER—There has been a fair demand during the past week for fine table Butter, the supply of which was not more than equal to the demand, but low grades continue dull, with the supply accumulating and holders anxious to sell. Sales of prime to choice solid packed, in firkins and tubs, 17a18c; do. roll, 20a22c; common to medium packed, 10a15. Creamery Butter, put up in ice, 27a28. As the hot weather is about over, an increased consumption may be looked for within the next few weeks, and higher prices for fine table Butter are not improbable; however, as pasture is unusually good an increased production is probable.

BROOM HANDLES—We quote in a jobbing way:

No 1 Plain	$16 00 ℔ thousand
No 1 Painted	24 00	do
Toy Painted	12 50	do

BRUSHES—White Scrubbing, $10a11 ℔ gross Gray, $11a20; White Bristle, $22a36; Shoe, $13a60; Horse (wood backs) $22a68; Horse (leather backs) $45a135; Extra white-wash, $36a75; Common do, $24 a60.

BEESWAX—Unchanged; 30a35c ℔ ℔.

BROOMS—There has been an active demand recently; some of our manufacturers are quite busy, but it is complained that prices have been reduced to such an extent, the result of a strong competition, that the margin for profit is small. We quote "Union" factory as follows:

No 1 Hurl—plain handle	$1,50

4½	48	14	1 62

Discount 15 to 30 per cent. as to quality and quantity.

CHEESE—There has been a very fair demand during the past week, and while there has been no change in prices, the general tone of the market is firmer. Prime Ohio Factory quoted at 8a8¾c to the trade, and 9a9½c in a jobbing way.

CORDAGE AND ROPE—The market for goods of this character continues dull; no change in prices which we annex as follows:

MANILLA ROPE.

COOPERAGE—Oil Barrel cooperage firm, but unchanged. Best Indiana matched staves, $45; do. alone, $30a35; do. Heading dry, $40; do. green, $35. West Virginia bucked staves, $23a25; do. rough, $20a22. Oil Barrels unchanged; countries, $1,30, city make, $1,45a1,50.

CEMENT, &C., &C.—Following are the jobbing rates: White Lime—Cleveland and Fremont, $1,60 a1,75 ℔ bbl; Ohio, $1,50a1,65. Cement—Rosendale $1a3,50 ℔ bbl; Youghiogheny, $2,00a2,25; Louisville, $2,00a2,25; New Lisbon, $2,25a2,75; Portland, $6,50a7,50. Plaster—French's Selected, $4a4,25; New York, $3,50a3,75; Michigan, $3,50a3,75. Land Plaster, $2a3,50. White Sand, $1,50a1,75 ℔ bbl.

COAL AND COKE—Bituminous is quoted at 7 to 8½c ℔ bu, according to quality and length of haul. Coke continues dull in sympathy with the depression in pig iron; no change in prices, $1,40a 1,60 per ton at the mines, or $2,40a2,60 delivered here, free on cars.

CANNED GOODS—Contracts are now being made by the wholesale trade, but there is no retail demand, nor is it to be expected that there will be, as long as our market are full of fresh fruits and vegetables.

DRIED FRUIT—Continues very dull; indeed, for domestic, there is no demand whatever, and the inquiry for foreign is also exceedingly light. The stock of the former was pretty well used up before the close of the season.

EGGS—The supply of fresh continues light, while of stale stock the market is glutted, and the latter is hard to dispose of at any price; a good many have been hauled to the river recently, and dealers can see no other way of getting rid of those still on hand—indeed, they are unfit for anything else. For strictly fresh there is an increasing demand, and we now quote at 12a12½c. The receipts recently have been light, and we look for an increased consumption and better prices before long.

FEATHERS—In fair demand for small lots. Sales at 46a57c for choice live geese original packages.

FLOUR—The market for this important staple continues dull and easy in tone, but, as compared with the date of our last weekly review, unchanged in price. There is a diversity of views in regard to the future of the market; some dealers regard lower prices as only a question of a little time, while others again appear to be impressed with the belief that the value of good reliable brands is not likely to rule much, if any, lower. It is worthy of notice that the indications at present warrant the prediction that winter wheat flours will be used more freely during the next year than the one past, and that they will pretty generally supplant spring wheats; moreover, as country mills will be able to supply their immediate neighborhoods, our city dealers will not have as many country orders as during the past few years. As yet the receipts of new flour have been small, and dealers generally do not care to handle it for some weeks to come, as it does not usually give satisfaction to consumers so early in the season. We continue former quotations.

Red winter wheat flours	$1,00a8,50 ℔ bbl.
Amber wheat flours	7,50a7,50	''
Spring wheat flours	5,75a6,25	''
Patent process and fancy white wheat	8,50a9,50	''
Rye flour	4,50a4,75	''

FISH—There is a fair trade but no change in prices, which we annex as follows:

Ex No 1 Mess Mackerel	$22 00 ℔ bbl.
No 1 do do	20 00	do
No 1 Shore do	18 00	do
Large No 3 Md do	10 50	do

No 1 Herring	40c ℔ box

GRAIN—Trade in Grain circles, so far at least as our market is concerned, continues very quiet, but an increased business within the next week or two is hoped for and expected; as compared with the date of our last review, there has been no material change in values, one way or the other. There is a fair demand for Wheat and the mills are taking all the good stock that offers within the range of our quotations; No. 1 red winter, $1,10a 1,12; No. 1 amber, $1,15a1,20. It is but proper to state, however, that our local millers are bearish; some of them expect to be able to obtain all the No. 1 red they want before long at the even dollar; but dealers, whose judgment is entitled to as much consideration as that of millers, appear to think that the market has about touched hard pan. Chicago has been rather firmer during the past few days, but that market is controlled largely by manipulation; the "bulls" and "bears" are always doing their level best to force the market one way or the other. The Oat market has stiffened up somewhat within the past week in consequence of diminished receipts, although there has been no change in prices; quotations may be fairly given at 30a33c on track, as to quality. It is said that the new crop, in this section of the country, did not turn out as well as expected; it is claimed that they did not head well, and instead of weighing 32a33 lbs to the bushel, 28 lbs is about the average. If this is correct, the yield, of course, was not as large as calculated upon, and it is not likely, therefore, that prices will rule as low as generally expected. However, the matter referred to may only be local. The market for Ear Corn continues very dull, and prices are weak and lower; the latest sales reported were at 50a52c. Shelled Corn is also dull, and but for the very light supply, it, too, would be lower, as the demand is meagre; quoted on track at 50a52c. Rye also dull and lower, with increased offerings and a light demand; we now quote at 60a65c per bu. Distillers are buying but little Grain of any kind. There is no movement in Barley as yet in our market, and in the absence of sales, we omit quotations; it looks just now as if prices would rule low.

GROCERIES—Coffee—The market on the seaboard has stiffened somewhat, and a better feeling prevails—the western demand having improved, and the latest news from Brazil being favorable to the holding interest. Prime and choice grades of Rio are relatively higher than medium and low grades. The new crop receipts are inferior in quality thus far, and the full crop of 3,500,000 bags is the estimate made at Rio for the current years' production. The Sugar market is firmer and fairly active. The refiners are sold ahead of production, and the importers of raw goods, having the market well in hand, are enabled to compel buyers to come to their views, which are daily expanding. The opinion of dealers grows stronger that higher prices will govern the market through September, and that no cheap sugars will be seen until the approach of the next year. In this market prices are are in favor of the buyer. N. O. Molasses very firm and stocks low. Syrups more active but lower. Rice ¼ up at Charleston and the stock well nigh exhausted. Teas improving. Spices firm.

WOOL—The market is firm, and the recent activity in the country has about cleared up all the Wools in first hands that are for sale. We hear of some localities having choice clips that are unwilling to sell at present—prefer waiting until winter; of this they must be the judges. We do not think manufacturers or dealers will be willing to advance prices any further in the country until the woolen goods market shows a better demand and better prices. We quote prices nominal:

The Crude market has stiffened up again, and prices were higher than they have been at any time yet; United certificates, $2.78⅜; immediate shipment, $2a2,07½. There is no mistaking that the general tendency of the article is upward; occasional reactions, such as we have had recently, are to be expected, but it will have been noticed that nearly every advance has put prices up higher than they had been before. Refined also strong and higher. Philadelphia delivery, 19⅝, equal to 18a 18½c on cars here.

ALLEGHENY LIVE STOCK MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
MONDAY, August 21, 1876.

CATTLE.

The supply was the lightest we have had to record for sometime, less than 500, of which only nine cars were from Chicago, with a full average demand, the attendance of butchers if anything being rather larger than usual, which may be attributed in part to the cooler weather, the market was fairly active, and that, too, at an advance of ¼ to ½ of a cent per lb. Some of the butchers reported that they had to pay half a cent per lb more than last week, while drovers generally quoted the advance at 25c per cwt. The grade of cattle suitable for this market were ½ higher in Chicago last week, and this was the cause of the very light receipts from that point; dealers were able to do better much nearer home. There were more cattle from East Liberty than Chicago, and the former were considerably cheaper than the latter even after taking the quality into consideration. Sales were reported at 5¾a6c, for extra beeves; 5a5½, for good to prime; and 4a4½ for medium to fair. The most of the sales were within the range of 4a5c. The best grades of butcher cattle, neat and smooth, weighing 1,200a1,300 lbs, are up a strong ½ a cent per lb within the past two weeks, and the supply has scarcely been equal to the demand. Bulls were very dull, and with an increased supply and light demand prices were lower; sales were reported at 2¼a2¾c.

Veal calves continue quiet; but few offering and but few wanted; quotable at 5a5½c per lb.

The stock on sale was reported as follows:

SHEEP AND LAMBS.

The number on sale was light, 512 less than that of last week, and while prime stock, which was in very meagre supply, sold readily enough, and that, too, at full prices, the common grades opened dull, and dragged all the way through, although there were but very few if any left over unsold. As compared with last week, there was no quotable change in prices; but the market was more active for good, fat, stock, and all of this character were picked up early in the day. Drovers generally complained that the market had been unsatisfactory, the great [illegible]

JAMES MITCHELL,
Sergeant, Signal Service, U. S. A.

THE stage of water last evening was 4 feet and falling. Clear and cool. The thermometer was down to 60 early yesterday morning, and until 8 or 9 o'clock, fires were not uncomfortable.

PILOT BARNEY GIVEN has not turned up yet.

THE Arlington arrived at New Orleans on Sunday.

THE Frank Willard arrived at Cincinnati on Saturday.

THE C. W. Hornbrook arrived from Wheeling yesterday.

CAPT. JNO. NOSS expects to leave for St. Louis to-day by rail.

THE Ark was to have left yesterday to assist the Fearless up with her tow.

JAS. S. TUGGLE, a pilot in the Ouchita river for a number of years, died on the 18th.

THE I. S. Kiefer passed Wheeling all right. She is not likely to have any further trouble.

THE Fanchon left Cincinnati for this port on Saturday, and should arrive here to-morrow.

THE Mocking Bird made the run from Cincinnati to Portsmouth, last week, in 12 hours and 7 minutes and made 25 landings.

CAPT. R. C. MASON left for Yankton last night, where he will be engaged in the interest of Com. Kountz, either on one of the Kountz boats or on shore.

THE new steamer David Sinton was due last evening, and will no doubt be found in port this morning. As will be seen by card, she is announced to leave for Cincinnati forthwith.

CAPT. H. U. HART's new steamer Gus Doneley was successfully launched from the Cincinnati Marine Ways on Saturday. She is 280 feet long, 41 feet beam, 4 feet hold. She will be very light when finished, will draw 30 inches.

THE Katie has made this season 42 trips, bringing to New Orleans 45,268 bales cotton, 149,921 sks. cotton seed, 6,844 sacks oil cake, 127 bags cotton seed, 1,520 sacks cotton seed meal, 197 barrels cotton seed, 2,710 barrels flour, 251 do. peas, &c.

CAPT. J. H. DUNLAP, Superintendent of Gray's Iron Line, was up from Beaver yesterday; he has been under the weather for some weeks past, but is getting better. He has no serious intention of matrimony, reports from St. Louis to the contrary.

WE learn from a Memphis paper that the repairs of the Belle of Texas are being pushed forward. She will be in excellent trim when she comes out in a few weeks. Captain Darragh is making a first class packet out of her, and when finished, her old friends would scarcely know her—she will look so pretty in her new dress and outfit.

A ST. LOUIS dispatch under date of Aug. 19: The Leopard is loading independent, which event has caused a decline in rates. Com. Davidson is up at Keokuk looking after some of his boats running above the rapids. Mr. J. Moses Brashears, a well known steamboat engineer, died at his residence corner of Prairie and Vandevender avenues, this morning at 4 o'clock. Mr. B. has been with the Memphis Packet Co. since its inception, and was highly esteemed by the officers of that company. He was aged about 50 years.

A NEW ORLEANS paper of Wednesday last says: The departure of the steamer Robt. E. Lee, last evening, drew to the levee thousands of spectators. Long before the hour drew nigh for her departure, hundreds of our citizens, with their families and children, could be seen coming across the levee toward the boat, and proceeding on board, the cabins were soon filled. Such an outpouring of both sexes we have never before witnessed. At 5 P. M. Capt. Cannon rang the last bell, and in ten minutes after, she backed out and proceeded down the river as far as abreast of the lower cotton press, where she rounded and came to, passing the steamboat landing in double quick order.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

☞PROFESSIONAL NOTICE.

Drs. Jordan and Davieson

Principals of the Institution of Anatomy, 807 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, Lecturers on Anatomy, Physiology and Science, inform their friends and patients that they have again opened a branch office for the practice of their profession at No. 2 EIGHTH STREET, PITTSBURGH, PA., where one of the firm may be confidentially consulted, more especially in all those cases of diseases and debility, for the treatment of which they are so justly celebrated. It is too well known that hundreds, nay thousands suffer from the effects of early indiscretion and seek in vain for relief, for none but the educated physician who has made these subjects a specialty is likely to succeed in restoring the patient to health and strength. Their important Medical Work may be had from their office, No. 2 Eighth street, on receipt of 25 cents, and also as usual from their head establishment, 1625 Filbert street, Philadelphia. Hours of consultation from 10 A. M. to 2 P. M., and from 5 P. M. to 8 P. M. Sundays from 10 A. M. to 2 P. M. Every case is strictly confidential. d&s

HOME NEWS.

Parties who do not receive the GAZETTE by 7 A. M., are requested to notify the office, and the tardiness will be corrected at once.

The probabilities for to-day are rising followed by falling barometer, easterly to southerly winds, and generally warmer weather.

A Broken Fly Wheel.

About nine o'clock yesterday morning a large fly wheel in Shoenberger's mill burst, a fragment striking a workman named Fischerman, producing injuries which may prove fatal. The cause of the accident was the slipping of the belt from the governor, which allowed the engine to run at inordinate speed. Some persons fearing that the flying fragments of the wheel would strike the furnace turned in an alarm of fire from box 47, but the engines were not needed.

An Ungrateful Acquaintance.

Last Saturday Alexander Paull, of New York, met Henry Grogan, who claimed to be of the same place. Grogan was "dead broke," and Paull feeling sympathy for his condition set up the beer all day, and gave the man fifty cents. In the evening the two were together in Paull's room at the St. James Hotel. When Grogan left a gold watch and a five dollar bill also went. Officer Pat. Kennedy last evening saw Grogan on Fifth avenue, and quietly conducted him to the Central station where he will have a hearing this morning.

An Extraordinary Game Hunt.

Several days ago a party consisting of three Allegheny Councilmen and several other gentlemen loaded themselves with shot-guns and ammunition and went out some twenty or thirty miles into the country in search of squirrels. They took large hunting bags with them and made all necessary inquiries in regard to the cost of shipping game on the railroad. For three whole days they were the terror of the squirrels in the forests for miles around. The frequent reports of their guns were sufficient to satisfy the country people that this party fully understood how to hunt. Yesterday they returned home burdened with the game they had slaughtered. It consisted of three squirrels, two of which were "grinnies." They report the hunting in that neighborhood to be good, but the game to be confounded scarce.

Pennsylvania Ores.

The Philadelphia Press has a good article on the minerals on exhibition at the Centennial, in which regret is expressed that they are not all collected into one building, but to be sought in various places, thus making more difficult the researches of the student. Mention is made especially of the celebrated "Bloomfield ores" exhibited by our former townsman, Mr. John W. Duncan. These ores are found in Blair and Bedford counties in this State, and their peculiar excellency is certified by the late Gen. T. J. Rodman, in a report made to Gen. Geo. B. McClelland in February, 1862, in which he recommended the purchase of the tract consisting of several thousand acres by the Government, on account of the peculiar adaptation of these ores to the manufacture of guns and also car wheels. The ore is of the brown hematite variety, and the deposit on the Bloomfield estate is said to be sufficient to supply the Government for hundreds of years.

THE COLD WEATHER.

An Early Foretaste of Winter.

Yesterday morning was exceedingly cool, so cold, in fact, that those hapless mortals who were compelled to be up before daylight found overcoats quite comfortable. As the state of the thermometer portended, a sensible fall of frost took place in the suburbs more especially at Pine creek and out the Perrysville road. In the East, telegraph informs us, frost fell in a number of places. The advanced stage of vegetables precludes the possibility that anything was injured, but the sudden falling of the thermometer will doubtless prove a harvest to the physicians, who will be called upon to prescribe for innumerable colds. It may be safely assumed that we will not again be called upon this year to suffer from the heat as we have already done. A person can manage to keep warm, however cold it may be, but to keep cool with the thermometer at 100 in the shade is an absolute impossibility. The cold weather will therefore be welcomed.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Regular Meeting of the Board of Directors Yesterday.

The Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce met yesterday afternoon, Capt. Dravo in the chair.

A communication was received from Mr. James Johnson, Secretary of the Tradesmen's Industrial Institute, inviting the Board to hold its weekly meetings in the Exposition building during the continuance of the Exposition. The letter was received and filed and the invitation accepted.

A circular letter from the Baltimore Corn and Flour Exchange was read, together with a letter from the National Board of Trade in reference to needed legislation. These letters called attention to a State law of Maryland, the object of which, as stated in the title, is "To promote the security of commercial transactions by regulating the issue, negotiability and transfer of Bills of Lading, Storage, Receipts and like commercial instruments, by defining the rights of the holders thereof, and by preventing and punishing improper dealings with the same or with goods covered thereby." The letter of the National Board of Trade says that the object is to get a similar law adopted in all States where such does not now exist. Recent decisions by the Courts, under the principles of common law, have shown the insecurity of advances made on ordinary railroad receipts and similar instruments, and places in a strong light the necessity for further legislation to protect the commercial public.

The matter was referred to a committee for examination and report.

The Special Committee on the Northwestern Railroad reported progress.

An invitation was extended to Hon. Russell Errett and Col. Thomas M. Bayne to be present at the railroad meeting on Wednesday to express their views on the matter. At this meeting not only the advisability of the construction of the Northwestern Railroad will be discussed, but the meeting will also consider any other railroad plans. In case the number of persons in attendance at the meeting is too large to be accommodated in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce, an adjournment will be had to Lafayette Hall, that place having been engaged with that in view.

The Board then adjourned, and the Special Committee on Railroads met in the same room. Their work being preparatory for the meeting to-morrow, was not made public.

A SOUTH SIDE SUICIDE.

A Man Worth $20,000 Cuts His Throat—The Effects of Intoxicating Beverages

During this period of financial depression when a man ends his troubles by committing suicide, the first question asked is, What were his liabilities? it being taken as a foregone conclusion that monetary difficulties have led to the commission of the rash act. But when a man worth $20,000 cuts his throat it is a matter worth more than usual attention.

For some months past Wm. Woodward, living at No. 1115 Carson street, South Side, has been indulging to an unlimited extent in intoxicating beverages, so much so that he has been suffering from delirium tremens for weeks. Last May he had come to the conclusion that life was a burden and existence a bore, and gathered unto himself two chisels, with which he attempted to end his life. The cries of his wife brought in two policemen, who found him with a chisel in each hand, vainly endeavoring to sever his jugular vein and wind pipe. Their timely arrival prevented the consummation of the tragedy at that time, and under promises of reformation he was left undisturbed. For some time he conducted himself with comparative propriety, and bade fair to reform, but after a few weeks he again resumed his old habits, and remained in a state of chronic intoxication up to the time of his death.

About six o'clock last evening he told his wife that he would go up stairs to endeavor to obtain some fresh air. About ten minutes afterward Mrs. Woodward heard him walking to the head of the stairs, and hallooed up to him, asking him if he wanted any help to come down again. He replied that he did not. Mrs. W. did not trouble herself further about him until about five minutes later, when she heard him fall. She then rushed to the head of the stairs to find him lying on the floor with the blood gushing from his throat in which there was a huge gash extending from ear to ear. In his right hand he held a razor, with which the bloody deed had been committed.

Drs. Chessrown and Thomas were summoned, and arrived without delay, but the man died within a few minutes after being discovered.

He was forty-four years of age, and had been married several years. He left no family, however, except his wife. He was in very comfortable circumstances, owning the house in which he resided, in the lower story of which he carried on the business of a furniture dealer. He owned three or four houses in this city, and was estimated to be worth at least $20,000. He was a native of England, and had but few relations living in this country. A family by the name of Donnelly, living on Forty-fourth street, were connected with him, and were notified by police telegraph of the occurrence.

Coroner McCallin was informed of the occurrence last evening and will hold an inquest to-day.

Notice.—For some time past many of our customers have been disappointed in not getting what French bread they wanted at our retail department, No. 18 Fifth avenue. We have increased our facilities and will endeavor hereafter to have a full supply for all.

THE CAMP GROUND.

Watermelon, Pea-nut and Fishing Parties at Mt. Sewickley—New Arrivals—Yesterday at Castle Shannon.

Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Gazette.

MT. SEWICKLEY, August 21, 1876.

Last week the weather was simply delightful, it being warm enough some days to cause the quicksilver to shoot high up in the thermometer, and the perspiration to roll in huge drops from the noble brows of the sturdy villagers who were continually indulging in exercise more violent than they were accustomed to. Such nights for sleeping purposes could not be excelled; cool and pleasant, the only inconvenience experienced was from little insects commonly known as mosquitos, whose greatest ambition in life seems to be to draw all the blood from the bodies of suffering humanity. As songsters they are unrivaled, although 'tis true the melody does not sound sweet to the individual who is about to lose himself in the pleasure of sleep. Perhaps the few mosquitos that have made their appearance may be the advance guard of a mighty army, but if they give no more trouble than we have had so far it will not be worth speaking of.

Last Thursday being the birthday of a prominent young lady now tented here, it was determined to give her a party. Invitations were sent out to be present at a certain cottage at half-past seven, when, lo! upon arrival at the appointed place it was discovered that the amusement would be a watermelon party, two barrels of that fruit having been ordered from the city by a brother of the young lady. The enjoyment of the next two hours can never be forgotten. Everybody, it seems, was invited, and everybody was present. Even the small children were allowed to stay up to enjoy the sport. It was very amusing to see the manner in which the guests disposed of the delicious fruit. Some had a piece in each hand and seemed bent on eating both at one time. Not only did the young folks partake, but also the heads of families and the grandfathers and the grandmothers. After this bountiful melon-choly refreshment a disposition to fight seemed to take possession of the melon eaters, and pretty soon the rinds were flying in every direction. The old folks sought the cottages for safety, leaving the field to be contested for by the sprightly lads and lassies of the village. The conflict was soon over, all the girls having been captured. With victory on their banners, the victors triumphantly retired to their cottages, and were soon in Morpheus' embrace.

Another party of unique character was given by a young lady on Saturday night. It was known as a peanut party, and the way and manner in which something less than ten bushels of the article were disposed of was a marvel and mystery to all. Then there was taffy made, and with a bountiful supply of peanuts scattered throughout the saccharine matter it closely resembled a mass of molasses with an army of roaches swimming through it. The pleasures of this gathering will never be forgotten by those who participated. It did not include any of the married folks, the reason generally assigned for their absence being that they are too fond of peanuts and peanut taffy.

This being the last day before the religious meetings begin it was decided to wind up with a grand fishing excursion to Little Sewickley creek. The finny tribe hid themselves, not daring even to nibble at a hook, no matter how nicely baited with a big plump worm. The party, although not brilliantly successful as to the number of fish caught, was a grand success otherwise, the day being one of continued pleasure for those who were fortunate enough to take part.

The arrangements are all complete for the opening of the camp meeting proper to-morrow.

The barber shop is in full blast and is being well patronized.

The main auditorium has been put in proper order and greatly improved by the addition of new canvass around the sides to keep the sun from disturbing the worshipers. It is an improvement that was badly needed last year.

The sale of tickets commenced this morning, the price being the same as last year, ten cents for single admission and fifty cents for season tickets, which will admit as often as you want to get in, but which are not transferable.

There will be ample accommodations for those coming in wagons and buggies, a plat of ground being reserved for that purpose.

THE EXPOSITION.

The Attendance Yesterday—The Balloon Ascension, etc.

Yesterday was a busy day at the Exposition buildings. A large force of men were employed in Floral Hall, which is still in an unpleasant state of incompleteness, and unless the work on it is pushed more rapidly, will not be completed before the latter part of the week. A number of exhibitors completed their arrangements yesterday, and many others were working industriously last night in order to be ready for the exhibition to-day, while many others who had been allotted space, remain in a "masterly state of inactivity," having taken no steps, whatever, toward preparing for the show.

Yesterday morning an invoice of one hundred and fifty fine paintings was received from Hazleton, the Philadelphia dealer, most of which were put in place during the day. The lot comprises the best collection of works of eastern artists ever on exhibition in this city. Every painter of note in New York and Philadelphia is represented on this catalogue, besides a number of European artists of recognized merit. During the day Mr. Wall, the Superintendent of the Art Gallery received a number of paintings from our Home artists.

The attendance yesterday and last evening, although not so large as that of Saturday, was better than was anticipated by the management, and will doubtless continue to increase as the show increases in attractions, which it will do very rapidly within the next few days. There were, according to the door keepers' count of tickets, over one thousand two hundred persons in attendance during the day and evening up until nine o'clock.

In our mention of the Exhibition yesterday there was an error as to the exhibitors of the "Elaine" oil. Messrs. Warden & Oxnard are the proprietors of the "Elaine," which, as an illuminator, has no superior, and which the proprietors are willing to match against anything short of sun light for safety, brilliancy, and cleanliness.

The balloon "City of Pittsburgh" made its first voyage yesterday, and a more beautiful ascension was never made from this city. The monster air ship was inflated with gas from the Allegheny gas works, and about six o'clock Prof. Gilbert announced that "the ship was ready," and "the wind was fair," but it was discovered that there was not sufficient lifting power in the gas to take up more than two persons. Mr. Jeffries, of the Leader, was so anxious to go that he asked Mr. Higgins, of the Post, to waive his right, which he very generously consented to do. An attempt was then made to go up with Prof. Gilbert, Mr. Jeffries and his little daughter, but the weight was too great and the little girl had to be left behind, which grieved her very much. As soon as the balloon was loosed from her moorings a second time she shot up like a rocket and continued to ascend until she reached an altitude of about one mile, when she took a southerly direction, and landed near the Buck Tavern, on the Brownsville road, about four miles from the city. The landing was said to be a very fine one, and before the anchor had been made fast there were several hundred people around the air-ship. A number of "captive" ascensions were made after which the gas was forced out of the monster and she was brought back to the city. In getting the gas out some boys who were assisting in the matter cut several holes in the balloon, in consequence of which it may be impossible to make an ascension to-day, as the balloon will have to be repaired.

Seats have been placed in the grounds outside of the Exposition buildings for the accommodation of ladies who desire to witness ascensions hereafter.

A telegram was received at the office of the managers last evening from the President of Mount Union College stating that the entire collection of stuffed animals and birds and other natural curiosities of that institution valued at $50,000 had been shipped and a man sent along to take charge of them while here. This will prove one of the most attractive features of the great show, as the collection is one of the finest in the country.

A number of applications for space were received yesterday, and we learn that there is not a foot of space in the building that is not alloted, so that when the exhibitors all get in there will be a much finer display than there was last year.

THE TEMPERANCE TICKET.

Nominees of Yesterday's Prohibition [illegible]

[illegible] vention to place in nomination only such candidates as are thorough prohibitionists.

Resolved, That it is the duty of every Christian voter, irrespective of party, to give his political support to only such candidates as will give their voice and entire influence to the support of any and all measures that look to the prohibition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating drinks; also

Resolved, That we reaffirm the platform of the Cleveland Convention of the 17th of May, 1876.

Resolved, That while we endorse the planks in former Prohibition National platforms in favor of a liberal policy by the general Government in reference to internal improvements, we especially express ourselves in favor of the early and thorough improvement of the Ohio river as one of a national character that can only be made by the general Government, and we urge its early completion, in justice to those who in the valley of the Ohio paid last year to the internal revenues of the United States $3,876,756, thus showing the importance of the Ohio river as a national highway and its relation to the business interests of these cities.

The report of the Committee on Nominations, which was next submitted, was considered seriatim. In the Twenty-second Congressional district it was resolved to make no nomination. For the Twenty-third district, Rev. S. H. Nesbit was nominated. For the Forty-second and Forty-fifth Senatorial districts James Miller and Edgar Galbraith were nominated respectively. No nominations were made for the Forty-third and Forty-fourth Senatorial districts. Where vacancies are left on the ticket it is understood that the Temperance party will support the candidates of either the Republican or Democratic party. The Legislative nominations are as follows: First district—W. H. Graham, S. R. Stewart and Dr. D. L. Starr. Second district—Laid over for future consideration. Third district—Jeremiah Cooper. Fourth district—George Finley, J. J. Bender, John Ango and Joseph Hays. Fifth district—John M. Irwin and Rev. James Strahan. Sixth district—Andrew Jardine and A. M. Scott. Court Brevities

ANDREW JONES, committed to jail by Alderman Jones, of McKeesport, was released yesterday.

PETER PERCHMENT instituted an action in Common Pleas No. 2 yesterday against Jas. Scott for trespass. A capias was issued.

THE appeal asked for in the case of Wm. Todd, whom it was stated had been convicted before the Mayor of disorderly conduct and sentenced, appears to have been a little premature, as the Mayor had not yet rendered his decision in the case. As the case now stands there is an appeal allowed before judgment.

THE commissioners of the Fifth avenue improvement filed their report in Common Pleas No. 2 yesterday. The total cost of the improvement, including sidewalks, is $581,962.11, of which amount $289,476.44 is assessed against the property on the north side of the street and $292,525.67 against that on the south side.

They also stipulated that they should be paid every two weeks. The miners at Brown's works went in on Friday, but those at O'Neil's and Moore's are still out.

····An unsuccessful attempt was made to rob the residence of Mr. Frank Loeffler, on Ella street, near Friendship Park on Sunday night. Officers Johnson and Simes were attracted to the neighborhood by the loud barking of dogs, and discovered two men jumping over the fence at the back of the house. They gave chase, and the burglars being too hotly pursued turned at the stone quarry and commenced firing on the officers. The fire was returned, but without effect, as the men escaped. The policemen returned to the premises of Mr. Loeffler and found that attempts had been made to enter the house, the marks of a "jimmy" being quite plain on some of the doors and window shutters.

A GRACELESS SCAMP.

A Libertine in the Guise of a Lover—The Movements of One Wm. Carpenter, Who Pretended an Affection for Lizzie Pherrin.

William G. Carpenter, a man who had been for some two years paying attention to Miss Lizzie Pherrin, a resident of West Millcreek, about four miles from Erie, entered her bed-room on Saturday night while she was asleep, and attempted to commit a crime in which he fortunately was foiled. On Saturday evening there was a political meeting at the school-house near Mr. Pherrin's, when young Carpenter called at Mr. P.'s before the meeting, had some talk with Miss P., and gave her two apples. When the meeting was over Carpenter did not stop at the house, but went home with Mrs. Margaret McCreary's boys, living about half a mile west, with the intention of staying all night. The party went up stairs, when Carpenter said he had been ploughing and that he would not get into bed, but said if they would give him a pair of overalls he would lay down on the outside of the bed, and sleep in that way. The garment was furnished him and he retired. About twelve o'clock he got up and started down stairs. He met one of the McCreary boys coming in as he was going out, but he offered an explanation to the effect that he was sick. He went to a shop near the house where some tools were kept and took a hammer and ladder sixteen feet long and carried the latter, heavy as it was, half a mile to Mr. Pherrin's, going through a corn field a considerable portion of the way, and placed the ladder at the girl's window on the west side of the house. The young lady had been asleep but was awakened by the noise, and the first thing she saw was a man disguised sitting in the window. Thinking he was a burglar, she feigned sleep, expecting that when he was satisfied after looking for booty he would go away without molesting her. Presently he stepped up to the bed and bent over and looked into her face, as if to satisfy himself that she was asleep. He repeated this action two or three times, and tried to find a match to strike a light, but there was no lamp in the room. It is presumed he finally satisfied himself that she was not asleep, for he came up and struck her twice with the hammer, on the left side of the head, back and a little above the ear. She was not stunned nor did she scream, but with great presence of mind told him that her watch had been stolen and that there was nothing there for him, and that he had better go away. She then jumped out of bed, and stepping on the hammer, supposed it was a revolver, when she picked it up and threw it out of the window. She then attempted to leave the room and get behind the door, when the man jumped out of the window. The young lady went down stairs and aroused her father, who was not a little startled at seeing the blood streaming down her back, but ran up to her room with a revolver in his hand ready for use, but the miscreant had flown and left his overalls, hammer and ladder behind. This was at half-past one o'clock. Mr. Pherrin immediately aroused his neighbors, and Mr. Henry Caughey, the Captain of the Vigilance Committee, notified his men, and all agreed to turn out and by daylight over one hundred men were on the trail looking for the villain. At last accounts he had not been captured. One hundred dollars reward is offered for his arrest. It has since been ascertained that Carpenter stole a gold watch from Miss Pherrin about five weeks ago. He took it on Sunday, leaving church before the congregation was dismissed in order to do so. Carpenter was Treasurer of the Sunday School fund, but it is not yet known in what condition he left it.

THIS YEAR'S WOOL CLIP.

Why Domestic Producers are Unable to Compete with Foreign Growers.

Leading brokers in wool view the recent advance in this staple as purely spasmodic, and say that so long as the woolen manufactories remain in their present state of financial distress just so long will the wool growers of this country experience difficulty in realizing paying prices for the raw material. This state of affairs they charge to the ill-adjusted tariff. They say that this tariff has not only failed to produce the fondly predicted result for "home manufacture," but it has actually done injury to the domestic production of merino wool.

According to the best estimates, it is an admitted fact that the clip of fleece wool in the States east of the Mississippi has of recent years been continually declining, and is now reduced from about 140,000,000 pounds in 1867 to a quantity estimated at not above 120,000,000 pounds. In support of this statement, they bring forward the authenticated facts that in seven years the clips of Ohio and New York decreased from 28,000,000 pounds and 15,000,000 pounds respectively to 18,000,000 pounds and 8,000,000 pounds. In a report to the Chamber of Commerce, a committee of the New York wool trade say:

While the production of the less protected combing wools has notoriously increased by a large percentage in the old wool-growing States, the clip of the highly protected clothing wools of the merino variety can be safely asserted to have declined to hardly seventy per cent. of the amount produced in 1866. If absolutely reliable statistics could be obtained, we have no doubt that a still greater decrease in production would be shown. Wool growing has increased only in the far West, and even there its strides were quite as rapid under the low tariff of 1857 to 1861 as they have been at any period since.

In addition to the fluctuating measure of values, these gentlemen find special cause of suffering to the woollen industry in the fact that "the extraordinary activity prevailing during our war, and immediately after the war, brought with it a sudden and large increase of machinery that we have never yet kept employed for any length of time without creating a surplus stock of some one class of goods. Our manufacturers are prone to rush into the production of such classes of goods as a momentary demand has rendered profitable, and the invariable result is an overproduction of these products." As an instance of this look at the recent woollen sales in New York, where goods sold at fifty cents on the dollar. Such an overproduction, they say, may happen in Europe, but there manufacturers relieve themselves of their surplus at a comparatively small sacrifice "by consigning their goods to foreign markets, where their cheapness has already introduced them." Our manufacturer, having made his goods out of highly taxed wool, has no such outlet for them, and is compelled either to wait the slow operation of time or to submit to a heavy sacrifice by forcing his surplus on the home market in competition with his similarly situated neighbors.

In support of this position, which is in accord with the opinion of the leading brokers, they point to the flourishing woollen industry of Canada, which, with its three millions of inhabitants, imports or consumes as much Cape wool as the whole of our country with its forty-two millions of people.

The total wool clip of the United States last year was 193,000,000 pounds. This year it will probably fall a little short of this. Yet in keeping up this aggregate the States west of the Mississippi have increased their production some 15,000,000 pounds, an amount equal to the decrease in the States east of the Mississippi. Thus the better class of cloth wools are falling off, while the inferior qualities are increasing.

It is useless to talk of exporting our wools, for the home market, owing to the tariff, is the highest priced. Australian wools bring 32 cents in this market. But the Australian grower can realize a profit by selling his club at 17 cents while the American grower requires 30 cents to make the same quality of wool growing profitable. Hence it is that notwithstanding the high tariff the growers are not benefited because the manufacturers cannot afford to them a paying price and come into competition with the better qualities of cloths from foreign markets. Last year at the commencement of the clip the price ranged from 40 to 45 cents; this year it was from 28 to 32 cents, wholly owing to the prostration in the manufacturing interests. The general opinion seems to be that the rise of from 3 to 4 cents within the past week was brought about by speculators, and that there can be no real advance until there is a revival of business in the manufacturing districts.

The reports that the Carlist war and the war in the Danubian provinces of Turkey would tend to lessen the European supply and bring about the increase in price throughout the wool markets of the world are without any foundation. The supply from both of these districts is so small comparatively that its total loss would have no visible effect upon the general market. Besides the Servian wool is a long, coarse, hairy staple, used only for carpets, and does not come in competition with either the Australian, Cape, South American, or United States wools.

NATURAL INFLAMMABLE GAS.

To the Editors of the Pittsburgh Gazette:

When I was in Pittsburgh a few months ago, I often conversed on the subject of the gas wells so numerous in Western Pennsylvania, some of which have been utilized in the manufacture of iron, and many in generating steam.

I have thought on the subject since, and tried to apply to it natural laws so as to construct a theory which might be a guide in searching for it.

I have long observed that the rocky strata of Western Pennsylvania run in long and easy corrugations, and not in a uniform plane; and that there are alternate elevations and depressions in the geological structure. On the Allegheny river the best salt wells are found where the depressions run across the river from northeast to southwest. This arises, from the fact that salt water has greater specific gravity than oil or gas, and finds its rest and reservoir in the lowest depressions—geological basis. Next above the salt water is the natural reservoir of petroleum; consequently that is found in regions a little more elevated horizontally, as, for example, Venango, Clarion and Butler counties.

Gas, lighter than oil, seeks reservoirs still higher, and is most likely to be found on the highest parts of the corrugations, if we can find them. These can be found most generally by the highest levels of the surface, and are in almost all cases on the divides between the valleys of comparatively small streams. The great burning wells of Butler county, which some of your people think of piping down to Pittsburgh, are on a high ground between the Connaquenessing and Buffalo creeks. That swell runs down towards the Allegheny, and crosses that river between Freeport and the Soda Works. The locality of these great gas wells seems to confirm this theory.

From the heads of Pine creek westward towards the lower Connoquenessing there is an elevated tract where gas in great abundance might be found. This elevation extends all the way to the confluence of the Connoquenessing and the Beaver, and probably on still further west. Below the mouth of the Beaver the Ohio cuts across one of these geological elevations. There would be but little risk of failure in boring for gas there.

But Pittsburgh itself is a low geological level, and the drill there would be much more likely to strike salt water than either oil or gas. Experience has shown this to be true.

These corrugations of strata are by no means regular, and the only way I know how to find the elevations and depressions is to note the height of the surface; or, better still, the dividing ridges between drainages, e. g. the Buffalo and the Connoquenesing. I think there is a ridge of that kind north of Pine Creek, extending all the way to the Allegheny. A little careful observation would determine this. If there is a store of gas there it is the nearest to Pittsburgh of any that can reasonably be expected.

Strong streams, like the Allegheny, the Ohio and the Beaver, cut their way across these geological corrugations, while smaller ones are generally governed in their courses by them. But the northerly course of the Ohio for some thirty miles below Pittsburgh may denote a considerable elevation of strata south of that river, so that a search for gas might be successful there. I have no other reason for thinking so than the northward course of the river from Pittsburgh to Beaver; for I have not looked at the regions south of the Ohio as I have at that on the north side. J. C.

AFFAIRS OF STATE.

REV. J. G. TOWNSEND, of Oil City, on Sunday evening, told his congregation "What Hell is."

THE Standard Oil Company has purchased of Mr. G. W. Browning the refinery at Union City, Erie county.

THE new Court House at Warren is about one-third up, and when completed will cost over one hundred thousand dollars.

MR. JOHN MCMILLIN, of Venango county, died August 13th, in the 83d year of his age. He served at Erie in the war of 1812.

A PARTY of Pittsburghers who own oil lands in Warsaw township, Jefferson county, will put down a number of test wells thereon.

J. M. MCELROY, the Republican candidate for Mayor of Oil City, was elected on Saturday over R. Chisholm, his Democratic opponent, by a majority of 249.

THE Pittsburgh GAZETTE refuses to hoist the Republican county ticket.—Titusville Courier. It don't do any such a thing. If the Courier man will drop beer long enough to clear his eye-sight he will find the county ticket in the GAZETTE, where it has been for several weeks.

ON Thursday night last Charles Foy, of Yatesville, Luzerne county, got into an altercation with a couple of men in the same neighborhood—one named Jopling and the other Matt Green. During the affray Foy was stabbed by Jopling, it is alleged, thirty-seven times, and now lies at the point of death.

THE Reading Rifles, Company A, Fourth Regiment, having tendered their services to the government to go to the Indian country and participate in the campaign against the Sioux, are making all necessary preparations to leave upon a moment's notice. The offer of the company has been gratefully acknowledged, and although not formally accepted, the company has been notified to hold itself in readiness for any emergency.

A TERRIBLE ACCIDENT occurred at Prentice's well, near Tarport, in the oil regions, on Thursday night, resulting in the death of James Munross, and severe injuries to John Cambridge. They were drillers at the well. At a depth of 300 feet the drill penetrated a crevice from which a heavy flow of gas was made. The fire and lights in the derrick were extinguished in time to prevent them from igniting the gas, and the men left the derrick while the flow continued. They returned too soon, as the gas caught from the fires in the engine house and in a moment the whole structure was wrapped in flames. Munross was severely burned, but lived until the next morning. Cambridge escaped with only a few burns.

A FEW days ago a Mrs. Corbit, of Chester county, while washing, sat her three year old daughter in the yard and left her playing with a small dog. Shortly after the dog came to her, whined and looked toward the child. The mother gave one thought of the child and rushed into the yard, where she saw her little girl almost frightened to death. A black snake, nearly four feet long, was wound around the child's left leg. She gave one scream and caught the snake near the head, and almost strangled it, when it unwound itself from the child and lay on the ground, apparently lifeless. The mother took up a hoe which lay near at hand, and cut the snake almost to mince meat. The child, on examination, was not the least injured.

REAL ESTATE.
Estate of Henry R. Beeson, Deceased.

By virtue of an order of the Orphans' Court of Fayette county, Pa., I will sell at public outcry on THURSDAY, AUGUST 31, 1876, the following described Real Estate, late property of HENRY R. BEESON, deceased, situate in Union borough, Fayette county, Pa., viz.:

1. About five acres of land, more or less, situate on the west side of Pittsburgh street, in Union borough aforesaid, near the mouth of Jacob's run, adjoining lands of Nathaniel Brownfield, heirs of Dr. Hugh Campbell, Richard Miller, and land last hereinafter described, on which are erected a large Flouring Mill, Spoke Factory and Dwelling House. This property contains a valuable Quarry of Hydraulic Limestone and a three foot vein of Coal, which can be mined or quarried together. Either steam or water power can be used in running the mill. The buildings are all in good order, and the mill fit for immediate use.

2. About four acres of land, situate on the north side of the National Road, at the west end of town, formerly the property of Jesse Beeson, adjoining land of George W. Rutter, A. W. Boyd, heirs of Hon. S. A. Gilmore, Hon. Daniel Sturgeon, Methodist Episcopal Church, and property hereinafter described, on which are erected a large Cement Mill, Cooper Shop and Three Dwelling Houses and outbuildings. Together with this property, and as appurtenant thereto, will be sold the Mill Race running through said borough, and furnishing very desirable water power. This Cement Mill is the manufactory of the celebrated Phoenix Hydraulic Cement, and the mill is now in excellent repair and fitted for running by either steam or water power. The Dwelling Houses and Cooper Shop (for the manufacture of Cement barrels) are in good repair. The well known character of the Cement manufactured at this mill, and the condition and convenience of everything necessary to make it, render the property well worthy the attention of persons desiring to engage in a good, safe and profitable business.

3. Six acres and ninety-four perches of land, lying between and adjoining the properties hereinbefore described, on which are a first-rate Quarry of Hydraulic Limestone, and three foot vein of Bituminous Coal. The coal and limestone can be worked together, and the former furnishes sufficient fuel for the burning of the latter. A portion of this property is valuable also for pasture or building lots. This land was purchased by Article of Agreement from Hon. S. A. Gilmore, now deceased, and will be offered for sale, first subject to the payment of the balance of the purchase money, and then free from encumbrances. It is a valuable addition to the Cement Mill property because of the Limestone and Coal.

The above described properties will be sold either whole or divided to suit purchasers, as may prove best.

TERMS—Ten per cent. of the purchase money to be paid on day of sale, the remainder of one-half on confirmation of sale, and the balance in one year from date of confirmation with interest.

Sale to begin at one o'clock P. M., at the Cement Mill.

W. H. BAILY,
144 Administrator.
